

God Authors Beauty (03-16-06)
by Larry Graff (House Springs, Missouri)

This letter is in response to a letter written by Terry Ramlow and printed in newsletter Issue #32.

Dear Laura,

I felt a little down concerning the letter written by Terry Ramlow in Wisconsin, concerning the internet. She complained against the intense colors as hurting her eyes, as well as the "distraction". Maybe if her eyes would weep, the tears would help them.

You are right in saying that some people like it. I am one of those. I find the different color gems, stars, boxes, animals, etc. and the bright colors are easy on my eyes. The different designs and bright colors really help me to find different things on the internet. Also the music, "Our God is an Awesome God", is relaxing. But you can turn the music off.

I believe your web site is very beautiful. That and the music gave me unspeakable joy. God is the author of beauty and quality, and love. Satan is the author of ugliness, competition and mediocre. In spite of the questionable moneys spent, Ambassador College had a lot of beauty all around. When your web site is filled up, it will have more colors and designs. Poor Terry.

Laura, you may put this or parts of it in your newsletter. Sincerely, Larry Graff
